Internet of Things

The Internet of Things—or IoT—is the interconnection of devices via the internet that communicate wirelessly and send and receive data. From connected toys to household appliances to medical devices, this technology has the potential to revolutionize the way we work and live. With an ever-growing number of devices becoming connected, how are security concerns being addressed?

Moderator:

- Assemblymember Jacqui Irwin, co-chair, Cybersecurity Task Force

Speakers:

- Margaret Gladstein, partner, Capitol Advocacy, California
- John Marinho, vice president, Technology and Cybersecurity, CTIA—The Wireless Association
- Jeffrey Zubricki, director, Walmart

10 a.m.-12:15 p.m.
*75 Binney Street
Cambridge*

Tour of IBM CyberRange, Cambridge, Mass. (Task Force Members and Sponsors only—RSVP required)

(Bus will depart from the Northeast lobby of the convention center at 10:05 a.m.)

Members of the task force will visit IBM's new global security headquarters in Cambridge, Mass., which features the industry's first physical Cyber Range for the commercial sector, where participants experience preparing for and responding to cyber attacks using live malware and real-world scenarios.

Cybersecurity Preparedness and Response

(Co-sponsored by the National Association of Legislative Information Technology)

Having an incident response plan in place before a cyber attack occurs requires more than just a set of written instructions. It goes beyond IT staff and requires raising awareness, training and walking through potential scenarios with key personnel. Learn what makes a good incident response plan and discover how legislatures are implementing them.

Moderator:

- Terri Clark, director of infrastructure services, Legislative Computer Services, Kansas

Speakers:

- Sheraun Howard, supervisory special agent, FBI
- Brandon Brin, director of IT security & operations, Massachusetts Legislature
